

FORCE HEINZE
TO RESIGNAs Head of Mercantile Bank
In New York

SAYS HE'S STILL SOLVENT

All Night Meeting of the Bankers Was Followed Today by Statement That
F. Augustus Heinze Would Step Out.

New York, Oct. 17.—In a formal statement this morning, the firm of Otto Heinze & Co. declared itself perfectly solvent and able and willing to pay all liabilities. Great market irregularities are looked for as a result of rumors. The underlying causes, not yet brought to view, are influencing the present trouble in the copper market. There was a persistent rumor this morning that F. Augustus Heinze would resign the presidency of the Mercantile National bank, and later the rumor was substantiated. After an all night meeting of the bankers at the residence of Charles W. Morse, it was announced that Mr. Heinze would resign as president of the bank.

Heinze Brothers Forced Down.
Following the collapse in United Copper yesterday, the stock exchange firm of Gross & Kleeberg, known in Wall street as the principal brokers for the Heinze interests, suspended. The suspension was announced on the floor of the exchange just before the close of trading and after a violent decline in the metal and affiliated stocks had been checked by the appearance of some buying orders.

Gross and Kleeberg have been credited with managing a pool formed for the purpose of supporting the Heinze group. They bought heavily of copper in the face of the sensational break Tuesday and continued their purchases in the falling market yesterday.

"We bought a lot of copper stocks for the Heinze people today," said a representative of the firm last night, "and when we came to deliver it, they refused to accept it. As a consequence, the firm was forced to suspend. The assignment was general, and for the benefit of creditors."

During the campaign of the past few days in United Copper shares, the copper company, of which F. Augustus Heinze is president, was the subject of much business in these issues. The shares of the United Copper company are dealt in on the curb market, not being listed on the stock exchange.

HEAD OF POLICE
GETS ARRESTEDCommissioner Bingham Accused of Raising
His Case and Ejecting a Former Police Captain.

New York, Oct. 17.—Police Commissioner Theodore Bingham was yesterday arrested following the service upon him of papers in a civil suit in which damages of $25,000 are asked.

The complaint is ex-Police Captain James G. Reynolds, who was yesterday ejected from police headquarters, where he had called to lodge a formal protest against his forced retirement from the department.

The commissioner immediately furnished bonds in the persons of Second Deputy Commissioner Bingham and Robert H. Lawrence, secretary to Third Deputy Commissioner Hanson, who qualified in bonds of $5,000 each.

Captain Reynolds last week was ordered before a board of surgeons which, after the examination, pronounced him unfit for duty. Tuesday he called upon the commissioner to notify the latter that he would appeal to the courts for reinstatement. According to the affidavit, General Bingham, without provocation, "deliberately and in a brutal manner did assault plaintiff by raising his cane in a threatening manner and using threatening language." On the commissioner's orders, the complaint further recites, the plaintiff was forcibly ejected by two patrolmen.

DODGED CYCLIST
AND HIT A CAROne Person Probably Fatally Injured and Another Internally Hurt at Barrington, R. I., Last Night.

Barrington, R. I., Oct. 17.—Three persons were injured, two seriously, in a collision between an automobile and a trolley car of the Rhode Island Saltwater company here last night. Miss Laura Maguire, daughter of a prominent Fall River business man, sustained a compound fracture of the skull and may die. Her mother, Mrs. Thomas C. Maguire, was injured internally but it is thought she will survive. The third victim of the accident was Miss John W. Campbell of Fall River, a relative of the Maguires. Mrs. Campbell escaped with a bruised shoulder. All three were members of an automobile party and were on their way from Providence to Fall River.

In avoiding a cyclist, who was riding in the same direction, Chauffeur James Creeden turned into the street railway tracks, not observing that a car was running in the same direction at a rapid rate. The car struck the automobile a terrific blow between the two wheels nearest the tracks and partially demolished it.

Proposition to Have Common Agent
With the State Sunday School Association.

The 25th annual meeting of the Vermont Bible Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Montpelier Y. M. C. A. rooms in that city, the Rev. A. L. Cooper of Randolph, the venerable head of the society, presiding. The report of H. A. Slattery of Morrisville, the treasurer, showed the total assets of the society for the past year to have been $2,374.39 and the expenditures $1,920.04, leaving a balance of hand of $454.35.

The proposition to employ the Rev. E. M. Fuller of Burlington, field secretary of the state Sunday School association, as corresponding secretary and agent of the Bible society, practically joining the work of the two societies, was discussed at length and a majority of the members present were unalterably opposed to such a movement, by which the Vermont Bible society would lose its identity. The proposition was abandoned. It was thought, however, the work of canvassing the state for Bible and Sunday school statistics might be combined. The secretary of the Vermont Bible society was instructed to correspond with the secretary of the state Sunday School association to see if a joint canvass of the state was feasible.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, the Rev. A. L. Cooper of Randolph; vice-presidents, the Rev. W. A. Davidson of Burlington, the Rev. L. F. Reed of Montpelier; corresponding secretary and agent, the Rev. L. O. Sherburne of Bellows Falls; recording secretary, the Rev. W. S. Smithers of Montpelier; treasurer, H. A. Slattery of Morrisville; auditor, Henry Wait of Morrisville; directors, the Rev. E. A. Bishop and the Rev. A. J. Hough of Montpelier, the Rev. F. A. Poole, Dr. O. G. Stickney and the Rev. W. C. MacIntyre of Barre, the Rev. F. H. Kellogg of Waterbury, the Rev. F. F. Lowe of St. Albans, H. J. Slattery of Morrisville and D. M. Camp of Newport.

The anniversary exercises of the society will be held at Waterbury, Sunday, Oct. 27.

LOOK FOR UNION OF
OF THREE CHURCHESCongregationalists Pass a Resolution by Unanimous Vote Showing Expectation of the Wedlock at Some Time.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The triennial council of the Congregational church, by a unanimous vote last night, adopted the report of the committee of twenty-eight on the subject of tri-church union, looking to an amalgamation of the Congregationalist, Methodist Protestant and United Brethren denominations into one church organization.

The action of the triennial council expressed the purpose and expectation of Congregationalists to consummate union with the other two bodies, and leaves details to a future general council, the Congregational members of which are to be chosen by each body where they may be instructed as to the mind of the churches of fuller knowledge of the proposed details.

UNION MEN SCORED DRAPER.

Massachusetts Branch, A. F. of L. Do Not Like His Attitude.

Milford, Mass., Oct. 17.—The election of officers and the reading of documents from the files of the executive council of the Massachusetts state branch of the American Federation of Labor relative to the attitude of Lieut.-Gov. Eben S. Draper of Hopedale toward organized labor were the most interesting features of the third day's session of the state branch held yesterday.

No action was taken in regard to the Draper matter, though there was considerable discussion of the reports of the executive council, in which opponents and friends of the lieutenant governor alike participated.

E. Gerry Brown of Brockton, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Independent league ticket, said that he had been misunderstood as to his attitude as a delegate in relation to Mr. Draper. Mr. Brown said that he did not come to the convention to oppose Lieutenant Governor Draper, but because of his love for organized labor. Mr. Brown added that he would rather have seen the factories at Hopedale unionized than have seen elected lieutenant governor last year.

PRINCETON SCORED ON.

The Villanova Foot Ball Eleven Got 5
Points to 45.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 17.—The Princeton foot ball team struck a snag yesterday in the Villanova eleven. After the home team won, 45 to 5, the visitors broke up on side kicks, forward passes and punts so well that in the second half they had little difficulty in forcing the team of substitutes against them to the Princeton 10-yard line where a forward pass on a fake kick formation scored for them the first touchdown against Princeton this year. In the first half the regulars easily rolled up 27 points. Princeton played loosely and experimented.

Fontaine, Ind., Oct. 17.—Col. Arthur I. Dupont, vice-president of the Dupont Powder Co., with General Supt. Ballot Law Commission Told Lawyers
For Whitney and Bartlett Today to Be as Brief As Possible.

Boston, Oct. 17.—The ballot law commission resumed the hearing on the Whitney-Bartlett contest this morning, with the intention of continuing in session until tomorrow, if it had to sit all night, in order to get the decision in the hands of the secretary of state tomorrow morning. The chairman told the counsel to bear this in mind and be as brief as possible.

At the outset yesterday, the Bartlett side won a victory when the commission reversed its decision of Tuesday on the question of the introduction of affidavits from alleged Whitney delegates who were unable to get into the convention, by striking out that portion which gave their preferences for governor.

This was followed by the testimony of a long array of Bartlett witnesses, who numbered nearly a score before the hearing was adjourned late last evening. Nine of the witnesses were lawyers, five others were ardent supporters of Gen. Bartlett. Nearly all were familiar with Democratic conventions, and they were as a rule unanimous in claiming that there was very little difficulty in getting into the theater, that the exchange of credentials for tickets was not unusual in former conventions, and that the opening proceedings were conducted in a fair manner, all of which was in direct contradiction to the testimony of the opposing witnesses.

Falls—Burial in Burlington.

Bennington, Oct. 17.—The remains of Charles N. Frederick, who was found dead in a little building at Bennington Falls, will be taken to Burlington for interment at Green Mount cemetery. According to the physician who assisted local authorities in their examination, Frederick's death was caused by an overdose of a prescription containing chloral hydrate. In the dead man's pocket was found a memorandum book and on the fly leaf was his name.

Charles N. Frederick, care of Dr. B. T. Andrews, superintendent M. F. Hospital, Burlington, Vt.

His sister, who came from Shaftsbury yesterday, made arrangements for the disposal of the remains, stated that Frederick was a native of Burlington and that Superintendent Andrews had the care of him, left her brother from his mother's estate.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The blame for the shooting in Brownville, Texas, last year, which resulted in the dismissal of a whole battalion of colored soldiers, has been definitely placed on Company B of the Twenty-first Infantry, according to the annual report of Brigadier-General Crozier, chief of ordnance of the United States army, which was made public today. His conclusions, he says, are based after technical investigation to identify the rifles from which the bullets and cartridges cases had been fired.

MUCH ILL-FEELING
OVER ELECTIONEx-Governor Stickney Wanted W. T.
Dewey to Resign After Just Being Elected a Director of the Vt.
Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

The ill-feeling engendered in the annual meeting of the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance company yesterday afternoon, when M. E. Smilie and Zel S. Stanton were thrown out as directors has not abated much in the over-night interval of cool thought. The directorate remains just as elected, although ex-Governor W. W. Stickney resigned as a director from Windsor county.

It has been learned that after the election of the directors and his own resignation, Mr. Stickney attended the meeting of the directors and approached W. T. Dewey with the proposition that the latter resign and he (Stickney) would remain as a director. To this proposition Mr. Dewey did not take kindly and flatly refused. As the matter stands, Mr. Stickney is still a director, his declaration to serve refusing to accept his resignation. Thomas C. Cheney also resigned as director from LaMotte county, but later reconsidered.

Outraged by the action of the directors and Smilie were due to the feeling that they had been elected unconstitutionally at the last meeting. They got only a smattering of votes.

A very large number of stockholders were present, and on the basis for directors the vote stood, George O. Stratton, 112; J. F. Sablin, 110; L. D. Taft, 110; W. T. Dewey, 109; George Briggs, 108; Zel S. Stanton, 3; M. E. Smilie, 4. Stanton and Smilie were therefore defeated.

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: Washington county, George O. Stratton, vice-president; James F. Sablin, secretary; William T. Dewey, treasurer. The executive committee will be made up of the president, vice-president, L. D. Taft and George Briggs.

A cordial greeting was tendered Governor Proctor at the convention. The governor gave a characteristic speech, which was enthusiastically received. The session closed with an address, "Literature for Children," by Miss Ada Van Stone Harris, assistant superintendent of schools in Rochester, N. Y.

President Dempsey's Address.
President Dempsey spoke in substance as follows: To even the casual reader of current history, it is evident that the conditions of American social life have undergone, and are still experiencing, a revolutionary transformation. An intricate and complex civilization has taken the place of the old individualism characteristic of the pioneer days. The power of the individual is great, to be sure, but it is often largely exerted through some carefully elaborated system.

To a large extent, we are no longer a nation of individuals in the sense of the early days, but a nation of systems. Our schools, among other things, are ranked according to the perfection of their system. I do not wish to be understood as deprecating this great movement, however. The change has been inevitable, and in spite of gross abuses it has produced results of incalculable benefit to humanity, by developing the efficiency of industries, our government and various philanthropic enterprises.

WOMAN IS HELD
PENDING AUTOPSYChild Died in Morrisville County Under Conditions Which Were Considered
Suspicious.

Morrisville, Oct. 17.—State's Attorney Tracy of Johnson and Dr. B. H. Stone, director of the state laboratory at Burlington, went to Morrisville yesterday to investigate the death of the infant child of a E. C. and Mary Moore, who lived for a short time in the Pleasant Valley neighborhood. The husband and wife separated and their child, aged three and one-half months, died September 16 after an illness of two weeks. Suspicious circumstances led to the complaint being made against the woman and the state's attorney and selectmen ordered an investigation. Mrs. Moore is held pending the outcome of the autopsy, portions of the baby's body being taken to Burlington for examination as to the cause of death.

TOOK POISON FOR TOOTHACHE.

Aged Inmate at Brattleboro Town Farm
Nearly Ended His Life.

Brattleboro, Oct. 17.—There are eleven inmates at the town farm in West Brattleboro, which is an unusual large number. Included in this number are two unmarried girls with injuries, a whole lot of women, and a few men. One of the girls went to the farm in July and the other soon afterwards. A close watch is kept over them as it is feared that the mothers will do the babies harm. It is known that one of the mothers wants to get away from the farm, and it is feared that if she has an opportunity she will go and leave the little one. Overseer J. L. Stockwell says these are the first cases of the kind at the farm since he became overseer ten years ago.

Thomas O'Connor, the old man who took laudanum last week in such a quantity that he was unconscious for a time, has recovered sufficiently to talk with Mr. Stockwell about the matter. He says he bought the poison of another inmate, Frank Brayman, and paid him 30 cents for it, which clears him of any suspicion. He says Brayman told him it was good for tooth ache and would make him sleep if he took enough. Not knowing the nature of laudanum, O'Connor took a large quantity, so much that his stomach would not retain it all, and this fact probably saved his life.

HOMEOS. ARE UNANIMOUS.

In Endorsing Standard Pharmacopoeia of the United States.

The 57th semi-annual meeting of the Vermont Homeopathic Medical society was held yesterday afternoon in Montpelier. Dr. A. E. Moore of Woodstock was the guest of honor. The society is a branch of the American Institute of Homeopathy, Dr. C. Noble of Middlebury gave a report of the American Institute meeting at Jamestown. Dr. W. E. Locke of Bradford, the president, spoke of recent experience with grippe and is a specialist in the treatment of St. Johnsbury and Dr. P. H. Davis of Lenoireville read a paper on pneumonia. All of these papers were followed by discussions. On motion of Dr. F. E. Steele of Montpelier, it was unanimously voted to endorse the homeopathic pharmacopoeia of the United States, as prepared and adopted by the American Institute of Homeopathy as the standard of authority in the preparation of homeopathic medicine. The annual meeting of this society will be held at Montpelier next May, when officers will be elected.

GREAT CROWD
OF TEACHERSAssembled in Burlington This Afternoon

FOR STATE CONVENTION

Before Saturday an Enrollment of 800 Is Expected—Mayor Bigelow Welcomed
Them and President Dempsey
Gave Annual Address.

Burlington, Oct. 17.—The Queen City of Vermont welcomed the fifty-eighth annual convention of the Vermont State Teachers' association, the opening session of which was held this afternoon at the Edmunds high school building, with president C. H. Dempsey of St. Johnsbury presiding, and an attendance of some five hundred. It is fully expected that 800 Vermont teachers will be gathered here before the close of the convention on Saturday, which will be the largest attendance at a state teachers' convention in Vermont on record.

Mayor Bigelow welcomed the teachers this afternoon in a cordial address of welcome. He was followed by President Dempsey, who after an appropriate response read his annual address on "The System and the Individual," a synopsis of which will be found in this article.

A cordial greeting was tendered Governor Proctor at the convention. The governor gave a characteristic speech, which was enthusiastically received. The session closed with an address, "Literature for Children," by Miss Ada Van Stone Harris, assistant superintendent of schools in Rochester, N. Y.

President Dempsey spoke in substance as follows: To even the casual reader of current history, it is evident that the conditions of American social life have undergone, and are still experiencing, a revolutionary transformation. An intricate and complex civilization has taken the place of the old individualism characteristic of the pioneer days. The power of the individual is great, to be sure, but it is often largely exerted through some carefully elaborated system.

To a large extent, we are no longer a nation of individuals in the sense of the early days, but a nation of systems. Our schools, among other things, are ranked according to the perfection of their system. I do not wish to be understood as deprecating this great movement, however. The change has been inevitable, and in spite of gross abuses it has produced results of incalculable benefit to humanity, by developing the efficiency of industries, our government and various philanthropic enterprises.

It is a fact full of import, though, that our progress and character of education has not kept pace with our industrial and social evolution. I do not fear anyone taking issue with me when I make the statement that while our schools are busy training the intellect, to some extent the hands and body, and to a slight extent the character, they are not adequately developing our boys and girls as social beings with social duties.

But leaving the roll of the critic, can we gain a clear conception of the principles that should underlie the organization of society—call it system or what you will—gauche the demands that present-day conditions make upon the individual, and determine the mutual relations of the system and the individual? If so, we can readily perceive the civic function and work of the schools and the aims to be sought.

First, the standards of a system must be as high as those demanded by individualism.

Second, no system may endanger, either wilfully, or by neglect, the life, liberty or happiness of the individual.

Third, every system should be, not the master, but the servant of the individual.

Fourth, our political and industrial life must be freed from the baneful influence and control of systems.

Fifth, responsibility for abuses and lawlessness must rest, not upon the corporation as such and its property, but upon the individuals comprising the corporation.

Sixth, any system is but the aggregate efforts of a group of individuals who are jointly and severally responsible for the acts and policies of the system as a whole.

The new individual must be imbued with a stronger spirit of love for his fellowmen, and must possess a greater devotion to civic duties. "The core of democracy is service, and the good citizen is he who is socially serviceable."

It is a thought full of encouragement for us that in the development and training of the new individual, we are also rendering the most effective service for improvement of society.

The function of the school in this connection is obvious. It is the training of the individual for his work in society. Whether we are supervisors, teachers or officials, we must not content ourselves with the elaboration of courses of study, the grading of schools, the improvement of the intellectual standing of the pupils, and the other things that are commonly included in a school "system," invaluable as they are. The schools are more than any other institution, the training ground for citizenship and the safeguard of organized society.

Our first duty, fellow teachers, is to equip ourselves for this work, to render ourselves powerful and valuable social factors; our next duty is to see that our school or system meets the needs of the society it serves, by assisting each boy and girl to acquire the knowledge, ability and will to become a free, efficient, law-abiding and law-enforcing member of society. We must bring our young children to a profounder and simpler reverence for the state and the processes of public order. To aid in the speedy realization of these ideals, both for our social institutions and for the individual, is the chief function of our schools, the justification for their existence and our privilege.

NOT VERY PLEASANT.
To Lose Your Baggage at White River
Junction and Come Home All But Bare-Headed.

After enjoying the pleasures of the Athens of America for a week or more, it was a cold world into which three Barre people—an expert on horse flesh and his estimable wife and the third also an expert, but in the field of dental surgery—found themselves thrust at White River Junction yesterday afternoon. Having come that far, the inner wants began to assert themselves with the vigor of an Oriental beating a tomtom. So, leaving all their belongings in the car, they betook themselves to the wayside "hashery" at the Junction, and were soon regaling themselves with the viands there afforded.

But the last course of the menu was their undoing. The horse-dish expert lingered too long over his pumpkin-pie. When they went out to take their train, they were dismayed to find the C. V. was for this day on time and had left, carrying with it all their baggage. Hasty messages were dispatched to Montpelier Junction, and when the Boston & Maine north train for Springfield, Mass., reached White River, the Central Vermont obligingly made up a train for the accommodation of the three Barre people and a party of other late-comers. Arriving at Montpelier Junction, the three tired way-farers failed to find their baggage. It had not been dropped off. So, reluctantly, they continued their way to this city, arriving here late and languidly; also chilled to the marrow. They have since been busy sending trunks for their baggage, aided by the Central Vermont officials. Altogether, it was not a cheery home-coming.

Marry Emily Cameron.

IN POSTPONED SESSION

Health Officer Reports That There Were
27 Births During September—Complaint on Rough Usage of the Opera House.

Although indisposed Alderman Williams was able to come to the council chamber last evening, making a quorum, and the city council held a short session ordering the payment of the warrants for the weekly wages of the city's employees and disposing of a few reports. Alderman Carter and Kaurton had not returned last evening. A request from the residents on Wendell Place to have the house numbers placed was read and was referred to the street committee and the city engineer.

The report of the health officer for the month of September showed a total of 27 births; number of deaths 15 and three contagious diseases. The building inspector recommended that the following permits be granted: Socialist society to veneer with brick the unfinished part of their block on Granite street; Fred Waters to reshingle a roof at 101 South Main street with iron; Mrs. Marcella Shepley to recover an ell with iron and a veranda with parol roofing. The reports were accepted.

A committee on lights made reports on three petitions for light. They recommended that the request for a street light on Long street be not granted as they considered that the light at the lower end of Warren street lighted Long street sufficiently. They reported that it would probably cost about $25 to install lights in the school houses that were used by the city as voting places but made no recommendation whether they should be installed or not and the matter was referred back to the committee for a more definite report. They recommended that a street light should be installed at the upper end of Merchant street and also at the corner of Camp and Tremont streets. On motion of Alderman Ladd those two lights were ordered installed.

A resolution presented by Alderman Williams was read for a resurvey of that portion of Summer street between Maple avenue and Seminary street as the boundary lines were not definitely known. On motion of Alderman Ladd the resolution was amended to read for a resurvey of all of Summer street that has not already been established. Alderman Jones of the city building wanted to know if the large show companies that appeared in the opera house have a right to use the city court room for a part of the troop to dress in. He said that in taking their trunks up the back stairs the walls and stairs were being badly knocked down. The matter was referred to the property committee to investigate and report back.

PLAYED SNAPPY GAME.

North Barre Team Defeated the Goddard
Seconds, 11 to 5, Yesterday.

The North Barre Seconds foot ball team and the Goddard seconds played a snappy game on the Goddard campus yesterday afternoon, which resulted in a victory for the north Barres by a score of 11 to 5. Kier made the seminary's only touchdown in the first half, after securing the ball on a fumble by Goddard and making an eighty-yard run. The North Barres made their touchdowns in the last half. Davidson made the first one after catching a punt and running nearly the whole length of the field. The second one was made by Johnson. Scampini kicked one of the goals. Two 30-minute halves were played. There was a large crowd of rooters present, who swarmed onto the field and hampered the playing.
